About Me

"I am a skilled full-stack web developer with a strong foundation in both front-end and back-end technologies. My background in economics, with a bachelor's degree in the field, gives me a unique perspective on problem-solving and data-driven decision-making. I thrive in dynamic environments, where I can apply my technical expertise to create efficient, scalable solutions. Passionate about continuous learning, I am always looking for opportunities to enhance my skills and contribute to innovative projects."
